

5/22/20 DDDC Email Update

To our DDDC families,

We hope you are well as we approach the unofficial start of summer. We continue to keep in our thoughts all of the individuals who have been sickened by COVID-19 and those who have lost their lives to this awful illness. Today is the 40th day of remote instruction and consultation for the DDDC. It's hard to believe that this has been going on as long as it has. As time goes on, some things may feel easier and others present increasing challenges. We know this is a tough time for our students and clients and for you, our DDDC families. Please communicate your support needs to your child's team so we can help in any way possible.

We hope you are able to enjoy the Memorial Day Weekend as we honor those who have made the ultimate sacrifice while serving our country. We hope for good weather so we can all get outside and enjoy the fresh air during this long weekend.

Take care,

Cat
