RUTGERS UNIVERSITY LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT
We acknowledge that the land on which we stand is the ancestral territory of the Lenape People. We pay respect to Indigenous people throughout the Lenape diaspora – past, present, and future – and honor those who have been historically and systemically disenfranchised. We also acknowledge that Rutgers University, like New Jersey and the United States as a nation, was founded upon the exclusions and erasures of Indigenous peoples.

COVID-19: RUTGERS MASK POLICY
In order to protect the health and well-being of all members of the University community, face coverings are required in all indoor teaching spaces, libraries, and clinical settings. Compliance is mandatory. See more at https://coronavirus.rutgers.edu/fall-semester-2022-health-and-well-being-protocols/. Students drinking or eating during class must replace their masks quickly. Please do NOT attend class in person if you are experiencing symptoms of illness.

COURSE DESCRIPTION
What would it look like for all learners to have equitable, fair, and just opportunities for success in school? By taking this course, students are invited to understand the multidimensional, dynamic concepts of oppression and marginalization and their role in education. We will adopt an intersectional perspective that recognizes multiple social categories and the associated power imbalances within them, while also centering race as a focal point of analysis. We will investigate pervasive narratives about the educational experiences of historically marginalized groups, explore what sustains those narratives, and identify ways to disrupt them. We will analyze policies and practices that hold promise for addressing systemic inequalities in education. Finally, we will engage in and value sticky dialogues about (in)equity, marginalization, and (anti)racism, and think critically about our own personal assumptions about and experiences with these topics.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
Specific Learning Goals (SLGs)
This course will support student’s ability to:
1. Describe how racism and other forms of oppression operate within the education system at the macro-level (e.g., historically, institutionally) and the micro-level (e.g., within classrooms)
2. Critically analyze dominant narratives about the educational capabilities, experiences, and outcomes of historically marginalized groups
3. Identify inequities and assess practices and policies that hold promise for disrupting systemic oppression and for promoting equity and justice in education
4. Engage in and lead open, respectful dialogues about (in)equity, oppression, (anti)racism in education and critically reflect on the role of race, power, and privilege in your own and others’ life experiences
5. Apply and communicate knowledge of course topics to professional and non-professional audiences

The course will also address the following APA competencies and elements:
- Area 3, Individual and Cultural Diversity: 3.1 Displays an awareness of how personal bias and cultural history, attitudes, and biases affect understanding and interactions with people different from themselves.
- Area 7, Intervention: 7.2: Identifies and develops evidence-based interventions in classrooms, schools, and other service settings that are informed by the current scientific literature, assessment findings, diversity characteristics, and contextual variables.
- Area 5, Communication and Interpersonal Skills: 5.2: Demonstrates skills in producing, comprehending, and integrating oral, nonverbal, and written communications that are informative and well-integrated across a range of situations, populations, and systems.
- Area 10, Systems-based Practices: 10.1 Demonstrates an understanding of the impact of multiple systems on student development and functioning.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS
We will work towards the objectives listed above using a combination of lecture, small- and large-group dialogue and activities, and personal reflection. Consider yourself a co-constructor of this course; your full engagement as a learner and leader and your willingness to challenge your own and others’ perspectives are essential to creating a high-quality, meaningful experience. You will have weekly reading assignments and should be prepared to contribute your thoughts and questions about them during class. We will use the course Canvas site for posting supplementary reading materials, handouts, lecture slides, and submission of all assignments unless otherwise specified.

ASSESSMENTS
Students will be assessed based on the following:
- Class participation (SLG 4). Active engagement in both in- and out-of-class activities and assignments is critical to the success of the course. We will rely heavily on active learning activities in a variety of formats, including jigsaw reading assignments, individual reflection, small- and large-group discussion, etc. Full engagement in these activities is expected.
- Reflection Questions (SLGs 1-4). You will complete a number of short reflection questions that support your ability to recognize how power, bias, and positionality have contributed to your experiences and beliefs.
• Racial Autobiography (SLGs 1 & 4). The ongoing reflection questions will be the basis of an autobiography that challenges you to reflect on issues of power, personal biases, and positionality as a future helping professional.

• Class facilitation (SLGs 4 & 5). As the semester progresses, you will be asked to co-lead part of a class session (about 90 minutes) on one of the core course topics. Facilitators will meet with the instructor beforehand to discuss their plan, create 1-2 substantive discussion questions for the session, and lead the discussion or related activities during class.

• Narrative and Counter-Narrative Analysis (SLG 2). Dominant, racialized narratives are often used to characterize educational achievement (e.g., capabilities, motivation, outcomes) of different groups and are rarely countered with theory and/or evidence. You will describe how macro- and micro-level factors contribute to a particular dominant education/achievement narrative of a historically marginalized group. You will also present a counter-narrative for the group.

• Assessment of Opportunities for Change (SLGs 3 & 5). Your final paper and accompanying class presentation will identify an existing area of inequity in a specific school system and critically assess a promising policy or practice for disrupting systemic oppression and promoting equity and justice in this educational context.

Assignment Due Dates and Weights
- Participation (Ongoing): 15%
- Reflection Questions (Sep 14-Oct 12): 15%
- Narrative & Counter-Narrative Analysis (Oct 19): 10%
- Racial Autobiography (Nov 2): 20%
- Class Facilitation (Various): 15%
- Final Paper (Dec 19): 25%

Readings:
We will read multiple chapters from the following books, so I recommend you purchase or borrow them (see notes on library availability):

*Kendi (2019), & Lewis & Diamond (2015) are available as e-books through Rutgers library.

The 2003 edition of Tatum’s book is available as an e-book through Rutgers library; I prefer you have the 2017 version, especially for chapters 8-9.

All other readings and resources (listed below in the course schedule) will be available through Canvas.

Class Culture

Accommodation Statement
I am committed to providing everyone the support and services needed to participate in this course. If you require an accommodation to fully access this course, please contact Office of Disability Services (ODS) at 848.202.3111 or dsoffice@echo.rutgers.edu. If you are unsure if you require an accommodation, or to learn more about their services, you may contact the ODS at the number above or by visiting https://ods.rutgers.edu/

Respect for Diversity
It is my intent that students from all diverse backgrounds and perspectives be well-served by this course, that students' learning needs be addressed both in and out of class, and that the diversity that the students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength and benefit. It is my intent to present materials and activities that are respectful of diversity: gender identity, sexuality, disability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, nationality, religion, and culture. Your suggestions are encouraged and appreciated.

I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make changes to my records.

Commitment to Anti-Racism
The following statement from the School Psychology Unified Anti-Racism Statement and Call to Action is relevant to our class and work as future helping professionals: We commit to using psychological science to combat systemic racism and implicit bias at all levels to foster change including:

- training, supporting and collaborating with school personnel, parents and other community stakeholders in advancing safe schools that are inclusive of policies addressing racism and other forms of discrimination and actions that embody these policies;
- preparing decision makers to collect information that includes representation from all relevant groups, informed by sources that are fair, and to deliver responses that are culturally sensitive;
- preparing current and future school psychologists to engage in public policy advocacy, even when politically difficult, to combat systemic racism and implicit bias at all levels to foster change.

Attendance
Each student is required to attend class. If you are unable to attend a class due to unusual circumstances (e.g., illness, child care) or religious observance, please inform me in writing as soon as possible. It is your responsibility to obtain any missed notes and handouts from your peers, so please make arrangements with them in advance.

Additional University Resources & Policies:
Statement on Academic Integrity
The University’s academic integrity policy, to which this class will adhere, can be reviewed at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/

Religious Observances
Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required assignments/attendance. If this applies to you, please
Equity & Anti-Racism

speak with me directly as soon as possible at the beginning of the term. See more at https://scheduling.rutgers.edu/scheduling/religious-holiday-policy

Discrimination and Harassment
Rutgers University is committed to a working and learning environment for all faculty, staff and students that is free from discrimination and harassment. The University strictly prohibits discrimination and harassment based on membership in certain enumerated protected classes. These classes are race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, sexual orientation, pregnancy, gender identity and expression, disability, genetic information, atypical hereditary cellular or blood trait, marital status, civil union status, domestic partnership status, military service, veteran status, and any other category protected by law.

Discrimination and harassment compromise the integrity of the University and unfairly interfere with the opportunity for all persons to fully participate in the academic, work, and living environment at Rutgers. The University recognizes the human dignity of each member of the Rutgers community and believes that each member has a responsibility to promote respect and dignity for others so that all employees and students are free to pursue their educational and work goals in an open environment, participate in the free exchange of ideas, and share equally in the University’s employment and educational opportunities. Any member of the University community alleging discrimination or harassment on the basis of membership in any of the protected classes is encouraged to report it immediately to the Office of Employment Equity, (848) 932-3973.

Bias Reporting
Anyone who believes they have witnessed or been the target of bias may file a complaint through the Rutgers bias incident reporting system. The website provides complete details, including Rutgers’ definition of “bias complaint,” what to expect in response from the University when such a complaint is reported, how to preserve evidence, and what resources and support are available. Complaints can be filed online, over the telephone, or in person. See http://studentaffairs.rutgers.edu/for-students/bias/bias-incident-reporting/

Students in Distress
Services for students in various forms of distress are offered by Counseling, Alcohol and Other Drug Assistance Program & Psychiatric Services (CAPS; http://health.rutgers.edu/medical-counseling-services/counseling/). Students can access the on-call counselor by visiting 17 Senior Street on the College Ave Campus or calling 848-932-7884.

Student Success
The faculty and staff at Rutgers are committed to your success. Students who are successful tend to seek out resources that enable them to excel academically, maintain their health and wellness, prepare for future careers, navigate college life and finances, and connect with the RU community. Resources that can help you succeed and connect with the Rutgers community can be found at success.rutgers.edu, and nearly all services and resources that are typically provided in-person are now available remotely.
